DETAILED ACTION

Faxing of Responses to Office Actions

In order to reduce pendency and avoid potential delays, TC 3700 is encouraging FAXING of responses to Office Actions directly into the Group at (703)305-3579. This practice may be used for filing papers which require a fee by applicants who authorize charges to a PTO deposit account. Please identify the examiner and art unit at the top of your cover sheet. Papers submitted via FAX into TC 3700 will be promptly forwarded to the examiner.

1. The drawings have been amended to overcome previous objections.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-15 are finally rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Petkovsek (5,697,648).

Petkovsek discloses in Fig. 1, 2 and 6, a mailing assembly comprising a backing sheet (11), first and second mailing forms (10a and 10b) removably attached to the backing sheet by an adhesive (Col. 6, lines 21-25) and separable by a tear line (60) wherein the forms includes a first return postcard (18) integrally formed with a designator section (24) which is contained within the first exterior sides (29a and 33a) that define the postcard; wherein the first mailing form (10a) is removably attached (60) to the second mailing form (10b); wherein the second mailing form (Fig. 6) has a second return postcard (18b) integrally formed with a second designator section which is contained within the second exterior sides of the second return postcard; a first anchor portion (28) extending outside one of the exterior sides (33a) of the first return postcard, wherein the first anchor portion has adhesive (48) on the backside (Fig. 2), is removably attached to the postcard via a tear line (33) a removable label section (30) attached to the first anchor portion (28) via a tear line (32), a third designator section (36) contained within the first anchor portion, and a second anchor portion (27) removably attached to the return postcard by a tear line (29).

However, Petkovsek does not disclose a designator section; indicative of a special service which includes one of certified, registered, insured mail, COD and return receipt; ~~having a machine-readable code~~; and is distinctly colored.

Art Unit: 3722

In regards to Claims 1 and 7-9, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have any desirable indicia in the designator section since it would only depend on the intended use of the assembly and the desired information to be displayed. Further, it has been held that when the claimed printed matter is not functionally related to the substrate it will not distinguish the invention from the prior art in terms of patentability. In re Gulack 217 USPQ 401, (CAFC 1983). Also, in the present case, there appears to be no new or unobvious structural relationship between the printed matter and the substrate.

Furthermore in regards to Claim 8, matters related to the choice of ornamentation producing no mechanical effect or advantage considered to constitute the invention are considered obvious and do not impart patentability, In re Seid 73 USPQ 431.

In regards to Claims 13-15, the method for preparing a mailpiece for delivery is inherently taught by Petkovsek.

3. Claims 16-20 are finally rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Walz (5,664,725).

Walz discloses in Fig.1, 4 and 5, a mailing assembly comprising a first mailing form (84) having a first postcard (70), a first anchor portion (58) and a removably attached to the postcard via a tear line (24), wherein the first anchor has adhesive (16) on the backside of the anchor (seen in Fig. 5), a first backing strip (49) received over the adhesive on the anchor portion's backside, an integrally formed first section (73) indicative of other services (Col. 4, lines 40-53), an area (66) contained within the postcard printed with machine readable code (75), and a second form (82) removably attached to the first form by a tear line (20).

However, Walz does not disclose: a second mailing form having a second postcard and a second anchor portion; a first return postcard having no adhesive; and a designator section indicative of a special service.

In regards to Claim 16, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have any desirable indicia in the designator section since it would only depend on the intended use of the assembly and the desired information to be displayed. Further, it has been held that when the claimed printed matter is not functionally related to the substrate it will not distinguish the invention from the prior art in terms of patentability. In re Gulack 217 USPQ 401, (CAFC 1983). Also, in the present case, there appears to be no new or unobvious structural relationship between the printed matter and the substrate.

Also, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to include any desirable amount of mailing forms with postcards and anchor portions, since it has been held that mere duplication of the essential working parts of a device involves only routine skill in the art. St. Regis Paper Co. v. Bemis Co., 193 USPQ 8.

Furthermore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to omit the adhesive on the underside of the postcard, since it has been held that omission of an element and its function in a combination where the remaining elements perform the same functions as before involves only routine skill in the art. In re Karlson, 136 USPQ 184.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments filed on March 23, 2001 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

In response to applicant's argument that the Petkovsek and Walz references do not disclose a designator section within the exterior sides that define a postcard wherein the designator section is integrally formed with the return postcard, the examiner submits that both Petkovsek and Walz discloses a designator section in Fig. 1 as set forth in the above 103 rejections.

Art Unit: 3722

Conclusion

5. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
